ABOUT AUTHOR

Introduction

A World Off-Balance

A World Out of Balance. Injustice, fear, and ignorance continue to plague our world. People of color are unfairly targeted, Muslims are stereotyped as terrorists, and climate change is denied. Innocent dreams are shattered by walls, and the natural world is exploited for short-term gain.

Who will rise to challenge these injustices and guide our leaders towards a more equitable future? Visual Land is our answer. By presenting stark realities through powerful images and thought-provoking quotes, we aim to inspire positive change.

This collection of photographs serves as a mirror, reflecting the world as it truly is. It asks a fundamental question: How can we create a world that is peaceful and just? Let's use the power of visual storytelling to ignite empathy, spark conversation, and drive action.

CHAPTER 01

VISIONS OF NATURE

The silent sermons of forests, rivers, and insects. Where roots teach resilience, light dances in decay, and every cracked leaf holds a philosophy.

(Themes: Nature as teacher • Beauty in imperfection • Ecological wisdom)

Artists seek beauty — never capture it.

Artist always seeks nature to create art.

Artist never captures the beauty, they seek beauty.

Art of nature always rocks.

Lion that we don't care about is Dandelion.

Nature is always natural.

The safest place in the world is nature.

Without nature, there will be no life.

Insects are only the prettiest thing I have seen in this world.

Snow land is always best because of its white cover.

Journey never ends if you are in nature, whenever and wherever.

Develop your ideas of life but never hurt your ideas of nature.

Be the fence that will protect our wealth (nature).

I will protect nature even when humans cannot.

Glass of water is better than a glass of Coke.

Vehicle can be useful but can harm nature.

Unearth is not exposing Earth.

Zig-Zag way climate is changing due to people's activities.

Choose nature or matter.

Understand, you are rich because of nature.

Fall is fruitful.

Nursery is just the beginning.

Life of flowers is always high till they die.

Roots grow deepest in broken soil.

CHAPTER 02

TRUTHS OF EXISTENCE

Unflinching gazes into life's mirrors. Poverty's poetry. Identity's sharp edges.
The weight of shadows and liberation in self-acceptance.

(Themes: Human condition • Displacement • Inner landscapes • Raw self-discovery)

Dark is light's other face.

Darkness is another form of light.

Do not shy away from looking at yourself upside down.

Life is full of joy; sadness can't tear it up.

Nothing is something, something is anything.

Old is always new.

The beauty is always inside—not outside—where makeup kills too much.

You are always beautiful without makeup.

Love your own shadow.

I feel proud when I see flowers of hope in my garden.

Home is where you never know when you are ready.

Even in the sadness movement, happiness comes.

Earn what you can but do not try earning what you cannot.

Be happy when you have less.

I can rise, will rise.

Yes, you can rise in any circumstances.

You cannot reach the sky unless you have a path towards it.

Do not touch me.

Mine is always a selfish way of saying everything that belongs to me.

Do not create a wonderland, be the wonderland.

Just my feelings, not film.

Know your potential.

Queen is someone who lives simply.

Up and down are two visions that will change our lives.

Xylography is beautiful.

X-ray is like a ray of the sun.

Write zigzag if you cannot.

Maybe Beautiful, Yet Fragile.

Quality matter, not quantity.

Scars map where light entered.

CHAPTER 03

PATHS OF RESISTANCE

Broken fences and mended spirits. Protest as prayer. Hands that rebuild worlds. The quiet revolution in choosing kindness over borders.

(Themes: Social justice • Defiance • Refugee resilience • Dismantling walls)

Build walls of hope — not borders.

Build the wall of hope not the wall of the border.

Be the background with no boundaries or borders.

Opposition movements are always for a reason.

Be Muslim because they can change.

Be Black, Be Bright.

Black and white are colors that empower when they work together.

Fake, if you cannot show real.

Kickoff the reality to show real.

Zoo is the worst place I have seen.

Zoo: the jail for animals.

Earth is not safe.

You can burn me, but you can't burn my inner pain.

You can sell us, but you can't sell our hunger for life.

Never hate the place where you were born.

Redesign, do not reconstruct.

Point your ideas anytime, anywhere.

Question mark is important for the solution of change.

Rapid change sometimes can be harmful.

I let you shoot me.

AK Fotography

Knife is always naive to nature.

They buried us—forgot we were seeds.

CHAPTER 04

WHISPERS OF HOPE

Sunflowers in war zones. Shared bread at dusk. The mathematics of mercy: how one cup of water > oceans of indifference.

(Themes: Radical empathy • Small acts as rebellion • Light in darkness)

When sun doesn't shine — be the sun.

Always think of yourself as a river of hope.

Hope is possible.

Hope for better, not best.

Be like a light that will brighten the whole night.

Get out of the darkness to get light.

With hope light up this world.

When the sun does not shine up, be the sun.

I will row the boat until my life stop.

Kindness is the art of living.

Great advice is; always help and love others.

Help to get help back.

Play with love, not hate.

Make a new friend, a new strange one.

Meet and greet.

Humble is only the word I like.

Children's ideas about the future are always cool.

Be creative so no one can edit you.

Be unique rather than uniqueness.

Own your own way.

Our aim is always high.

Joy is another form of happiness.

Think as you are the happiness of helpless.

Variety is various.

Friendship doesn't have limits.

Journey is full of colors, paint it.

Upward is anytime up.

Quiz yourself what you see.

See the unknown world with youthful eyes.

Simple thing you can do is see the beauty around yourself.

Someone will pick you up when you are only young.

Plant whispers—they grow into roars.
